♦ Advisory Public Review of BSR/ASHRAE Standard 166P, Heating, Ventilating, Air-Conditioning and Refrigerating Terminology

Previously, definitions of terms in ASHRAE could be found in each handbook chapter, standard, guideline, and other publications. While there were some common definitions, there were also many inconsistencies between the various publications. Standard 166P is meant to standardize the use of these terms into their most common and consistent meaning for all ASHRAE publications. The terms in this standard are a synthesized listing of the terms from the original Terminology publication, the various handbook chapters, the standards, and the guidelines.

30-Day Public Review from December 23, 2011, to January 22, 2012

INTERIM MEETINGS

♦ 1st Public Review of BSR/ASHRAE Addendum b to ANSI/ASHRAE Standard 160-2009, Criteria for Moisture-Control Design Analysis in Buildings

This proposed addendum modifies Section 4.3 of the standard after the SSPC realized that indoor design humidities exceeding 70% RH were excessive and should not be allowed for design analysis. This addendum also modifies Table 4.3.2 based on recent analysis of measured indoor humidity and ventilation data.

Interim meetings have been scheduled for the committees indicated below. A complete listing of project committee interim meetings is provided on ASHRAE's website at: <http://www.ashrae.org/technology/page/106>.

SPC 206P, Method of Testing for Rating of Multi-Purpose Heat Pumps for Residential Space Conditioning and Water Heating, will hold a conference call on Monday, January 9, 2012 from 1:00 pm to 3:00 PM (Eastern).

For additional information contact Wayne Reedy, Chair of SPC 206P (wreedy@sugardog.com).

♦ 1st Public Review of BSR/ASHRAE Addendum c to ANSI/ASHRAE Standard 160-2009, Criteria for Moisture-Control Design Analysis in Buildings

This proposed addendum modifies Table 4.6.1 and the explanation of terms directly below the table. The reason for the change(s) is to simplify the calculation of wind-driven rain without significantly degrading the accuracy of the calculation.
