BETWEEN THE
UNITED NATIONS ENVIRONMENT PROGRAMME
AND
AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING, REFRIGERATING AND AIR-CONDITIONING ENGINEERS, INC. (ASHRAE)

This Memorandum of Understanding is entered into by American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers, Inc. (ASHRAE) and the United Nations Environment Programme ("UNEP"), a subsidiary organ of the United Nations, established by UN General Assembly resolution 2997 (XXVII) of 15 December 1972, hereinafter jointly referred to as "the Parties".

WHEREAS UNEP is the leading global environmental authority that sets the global environmental agenda, promotes the coherent implementation of the environmental dimension of sustainable development within the United Nations system and serves as an authoritative advocate for the global environment;

WHEREAS American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers, Inc. (ASHRAE), is a ASHRAE-technical society and has as its mandate or objective dedicated to advancing human well-being through sustainable technology for the built environment. The Society and its members focus on building systems, energy efficiency, indoor air quality, refrigeration and sustainability within the industry;

WHEREAS the Parties share common goals and objectives with regard to the coherent implementation of the environmental dimensions of sustainable development, and wish to collaborate in areas of mutual concern, with transparency and efficiency, in the development of initiatives and actions of joint interest within their respective mandates and governing regulations;

Article 2

Areas of Cooperation

The Parties hereby establish a strategic partnership and agree to cooperate in the following nonexhaustive areas of common concern and interest:

- Cooperate to advance comprehensive, lifecycle-based approaches to refrigerant management in support of climate mitigation objectives and compliance with the Montreal Protocol and its Kigali Amendment.
- Promote the deployment and application of digital technologies and innovative solutions, including data-driven and artificial intelligence-enabled tools, to strengthen refrigerant management practices, enhance system performance, and enable evidence-based decision-making across the refrigeration and air-conditioning sector.
- Strengthen human and institutional capacities in developing countries (Article 5 countries) through the promotion of a skilled Refrigeration and Air Conditioning (RAC) workforce capable of protecting the environment and driving sustainable cooling transitions, with due consideration to gender equality and youth inclusion.
- Advance the development, adaptation, and uptake of internationally recognized standards, codes, and technical guidance related to refrigerant management, safety, and system performance, including those addressing low global warming potential refrigerants and emerging technologies.
- Promote integrated and synergistic approaches to improving energy efficiency in cooling applications, recognizing its critical role in maximizing climate co-benefits, reducing emissions, and supporting sustainable development, including through alignment with national and international energy and climate policies.
- Support the development, exchange, and dissemination of knowledge products, technical resources, and best practices to enhance awareness and technical understanding among policymakers, industry stakeholders, and practitioners on sustainable refrigerant management and cooling solutions.
- Encourage strategic collaboration on areas of mutual interest, including next-generation refrigerant technologies, system optimization, safety considerations, and approaches that advance sustainability in the refrigeration and air-conditioning sector.
- Promote coordinated engagement in international, regional, and national platforms, including technical events, partnerships, and collaborative initiatives, to strengthen knowledge sharing and capacity development tailored to the evolving needs of developing countries.

Article 3

Consultation and Exchange of Information

The Parties shall, on a regular basis, keep each other informed of and consult on matters of common interest, which in their opinion are likely to lead to mutual collaboration, and shall, at such intervals as deemed appropriate, convene meetings to review the progress of activities being carried out under this Memorandum of Understanding and to plan future activities. Article 5

Implementation

The Parties will develop a plan under the present Memorandum of Understanding, including specific activities, projects and programmes, whose definition and implementation shall be subject to detailed separate agreements, in accordance with Article 1.

Each Party shall be responsible for its acts and omissions in connection with the present Memorandum of Understanding and its implementation unless mutually agreed by the Parties upon a separate agreement.

Article 6

Acknowledgement of the Partnership

The Parties agree to recognize and acknowledge their partnership, as appropriate. To that end, the Parties will consult with each other concerning the manner and form of such recognition and acknowledgement, including the use of their names and logos.
